Art Unit: 1713

With entry of the preliminary amendment of October 27, 2003, claims 1-16 and 18-40 are currently pending and under examination in this C-I-P of prior pending application no. 10/321,762.

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

The related application data and the reference (page 23, lines 16-17) to a copending US application should be updated to include the present status of the parent and referenced applications.

Appropriate correction of the specification is required.

Claims 4, 5 and 19-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. More specifically, the following grounds for indefiniteness apply to the indicated claims.

(A) Claim 4 is indefinite due to "the containers" being ambiguous as to antecedent basis. Note that precedent is provided only for "a temporary container" (cf. claim 1, lines 7-8); hence it is unclear what limitation(s) the plural form of "container" is intended to refer back to. Clarification and appropriate correction are required.

(B) Claim 19 is indefinite as confusing in the recitation "grinding the polymer and the temporary container ...". Given that the preceding step to claim 19 involves removing the temporary container with a polar solvent (presumably through dissolution), it is not seen how the container can be subsequently available for grinding with the polymer. In this regard, compare claim 1, penultimate line. Clarification and appropriate correction are required.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicants' disclosure.

Wartman is pertinent to drag reduction formulations provided as slurries comprising: particulate ethylene oxide polymer; an inert, non-solvent vehicle such as propylene glycol (note Examples III, IV and VI); and a thickening agent. A slurry comprising a polar solvent-soluble thermosealing material dissolved in a polar solvent process fluid is not taught nor suggested.

Claims 1-3, 6-16, 18 and 32-40 are allowable. Balance of the claims would be allowable if amended or rewritten to overcome the rejection under 35 U.S.C. 112 set forth in this Office action.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Applicants' claim a method for producing a polymer drag reducing agent including the steps of: mixing a monomer and catalyst in a CSTR to form a mixture; continuously injecting the mixture into a volume continuously formed by a polar solvent-soluble thermosealing material; periodically sealing off the thermosealing material into a temporary container; permitting the monomer to polymerize in the temporary container to form polymer; removing the temporary container with a polar solvent; and grinding the polymer to produce particulate polymer drag reducing agent. Applicants' also claim a slurry of particulate drag reducing agent that comprises a particulate polymer drag reducing agent; a process fluid that comprises: a polar solvent; and a polar solvent-soluble thermosealing material dissolved in the polar solvent.

Examiner has not, as of the date of this Office action, located or identified any prior art documents that can be used to render the process or slurry of the claimed invention anticipated or obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art.
